The first one celebrated is the advent of our Lord, and the nearest Sunday to this time is called Advent Sunday, happening this year on the 27th. Evergreens.--Though the least pleasant sight connected with the coming on of winter in this month is to see the leaves, that have so gladdened the groves all the summer long, falling everywhere around us, withered and dead, --that sight is accompanied by another which is too often overlooked. Though most of the leaves fall in winter, and the stems and branches which they beautified stand here, many of them remain all the year round, and look brighter and fresher now than they did in spring, in virtue of the contrasts that are everywhere about them. Indeed, the cultivation of Evergreens has become so general with us of late years, that...
